Charles Dickens (1812-1870)

David Copperfield

Introduction:

David's father dies and his mother marries again. His stepfather is a cruel man and sends David away to London. Then his mother dies and David is left alone. His life is difficult: he meets many people, good and bad, has different jobs and eventually becomes a gentleman. He starts writing stories, marries a pretty girl but she dies soon. Will he remarry and be happy again?

"Hello, David" she said. "How are you? "

"I am very well," I said. "I'm well and happy." This was not true. I was not happy, but I could not tell Agnes that. "You have some good news for me, haven't you?" I asked.

"Good news?" Agnes asked. "I don't understand."

"You are going to get married. Isn't that good news?"

"No", Agnes replied. "It isn't true. I won't marry. I can't marry." Suddenly tears came into her eyes. "Oh, I am being silly", she said. "Don't look at me."

"My dear!" I said. "What is wrong? Why can't you marry?"

"I love a man," she said. "But I can't marry him because he doesn't love me. I loved him as a child and now I love him as a woman."

"Really?" I said. "Agnes! Who is the man?"

Agnes turned away. "I can't tell you," she said.

I held her arms. "Agnes! " I ordered. "Tell me! Who is the man?"

Agnes looked into my eyes. "You are the man, David," she said. "I am sorry. You feel like a brother and not a husband to me. I know that."

"But I want to be your husband!" I cried. "I love you, Agnes. I didn't understand my feelings, but now I do. I love you. Will you marry me? "

"Oh, yes, David," Agnes said. "I will marry you."

I put my arms round her and I looked into her eyes. "Why are you sad?" I asked.

"I am not really sad," she said. "But I am thinking about Dora. I went to her room when she was dying. You remember that. She asked me to promise her something. She told me to marry you. And then she died."

"You should keep the promise," I said and I kissed her.

stepfather	[ˈstepfɑːθə]	=	nevlastní otec
remarry	[,riːˈmæri]	=	znovu se vdát
suddenly	[ˈsʌdnli]	=	náhle, najednou
keep the promise		=	dodržet slib
