2. Read. Use your dictionary. Write the new vocabulary into your exercise book.

Then make your own short dialogues:

Tom: Hello Peter. How was your weekend? What did you do?

Peter: Well, we had a visit on Saturday. Uncle George and his family came to visit us. It was fun. He has two children, a boy and a girl. The girl is very shy, she is only six years old, but the boy is OK. He is as old as me. We talked about cars and music and in the afternoon we went out and played ice-hockey.

Tom: Hmmm, we had a visit on Sunday. But it was no fun. Aunt Gloria came and she talked all the time to my mother, they ate sandwiches and drank tea all day. And they told me to go out and look after Mark and Tina. Ugh. How boring. But Saturday was OK. My father and me went to see an ice-hockey match. It was really superb.

3. True or false?

The key is at the end of the lesson.

1. Tom had a superb weekend with his cousin. FALSE
2. Peter's aunt's name is Gloria. FALSE
3. Uncle George has two children. TRUE
4. Tom didn't like his Sunday very much. TRUE
5. Peter saw an ice-hockey match with his father on Saturday. FALSE
6. Peter and his cousin played ice-hockey. TRUE
7. Tom's mother and aunt ate a lot of sandwiches on Sunday. TRUE
